Why am I being asked about my sexual orientation and gender identity?
Each patient has unique health needs. Lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgender (LGBT+) individuals often have different health needs. Understanding sexual orientation and gender identity helps us provide appropriate healthcare services and culturally sensitive care to all our patients.

What is gender identity?
Gender identity is someone's inner sense of their gender. For example, a person may think of themselves as male, as female, as a combination of male and female, or as another gender.

What does transgender mean?
Transgender people have a gender identity that is not the same as their sex at birth.

- Transgender Male describes someone assigned female at birth who has a male gender identity.
- Transgender Female describes someone assigned male at birth who has a female gender identity.
- Genderqueer and non-binary describe someone who has a gender identity that is neither male nor female or is a combination of male and female.

How do I choose the correct information?
There are no right or wrong answers. If you don't find an answer that fits, you can choose "Other," or "Don't know/ Unknown," or you can talk with your provider.

Who will see this information?
Your provider(s) and other staff associated with your care will see this information, and it will become part of your medical record. Your information is confidential and protected by law, just like all your other health information.

What if I don't want to share this information?
You have the option to check the box, "Choose not to disclose." Later, your provider may ask you these questions privately during your visit. You can choose whether to share this information at that point and/or you can ask your provider more questions.

How will this information be used?
Your provider(s) will use this information to help meet your healthcare needs. In addition, gathering this information from all patients allows the health center to see if there are gaps in care or services across different populations. This helps us improve the care we give to our patients.
